

VICE-ROYAL VISIT.

Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Aberdeen and party, arrived on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by special train in the palace car "Victoria." The South Edmonton reception committee, comprising Mr. T. Bennett, W. F. Dixon and T. Anderson and a large number of the citizens were there to welcome them and as the train pulled in, a hearty cheer was given. The platform was nicely decorated. An arch of evergreens with a tower at each end surmounted on one end with the Union Jack and on the other by the Canadian ensign had been erected at the exit to the platform upon which was the inscription "WELCOME" and flags and streamers hung from several of the buildings in town. Mr. T. Bennett then read an address from the citizens. A piece of gold from the Saskatchewan river was presented by Master Meredith in Highland costume, to Lady Aberdeen. Mrs. Shields also presented Lady Aberdeen with a bouquet. The address read as follows:

MAY I PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:
We the inhabitants and citizens of South Edmonton beg to offer you and your illustrious consort Lady Aberdeen our most hearty welcome to South Edmonton, being the most northern railway terminus in our Dominion or in fact upon the American continent.

But although our infant town is situated in this far northern district on the banks of the great Saskatchewan, the point from which the celebrated explorer Sir John Franklin took his overland course to the Arctic seas in the year 1820, we boast of a fine country, rich soil, a pleasant and healthy climate and as encouraging prospects as can be offered to industry and capital, in an agricultural point of view, as could be obtained in a more southern clime.

Our land is underlaid with an inexhaustible supply of coal. In our rocks and streams are deposits of untold wealth in gold and precious metals, awaiting only enterprise and capital to develop them.

We have a boundless country, as yet unknown to the average statesman and capitalist, and we therefore appreciate in the highest degree the honor Your Excellencies have paid us in visiting this out of the way portion of our great Northwest.

You will no doubt be pleased with the appearance of the country and the progress which has been made in settling on the lands along this line of railway over which you have just passed, covering a period of only three years. We have yet room for millions of settlers, and we trust that a greater impetus will be given to immigration than has yet been known in the history of our Dominion. And knowing the great interest Lady Aberdeen will take in these matters we feel the greatest confidence that your visit will be beneficial to the country, as we trust it will be pleasant to yourselves.

We therefore pray that prosperity may continue to flow in your wake on this occasion as it has in the past.

Wishing your Excellency and the Countess the continued blessing of good health to enable you to carry the useful and important measures so characteristic of your lives and a long and happy life to enjoy them.

We have the honor to subscribe ourselves on behalf of the citizens of South Edmonton, Your Excellencies obedient servants,

T. BENNETT,
H. WILSON.

We have great pleasure in presenting to Her Excellency on behalf of the ladies of South Edmonton a small nugget of gold taken from the great Saskatchewan as a souvenir of her visit to South Edmonton.

A general presentation of the citizens followed. Afterwards, the committee, Mr. Wilson and Major Griesbach held a private interview with Lord Aberdeen in which he spoke most hopefully of the future of the country.

Mayor McCauley, Rev. Father Lacombe and Rev. D. G. McQueen then waited upon their excellencies in reference to the arrangements to be made for the proceedings at Edmonton and St. Albert and were graciously received. A committee of Edmonton ladies appointed by a ladies' meeting held in the town hall Friday afternoon and comprising Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Prince, Mrs. Dean, Mrs. A. Macdonald, (pastor), Mrs. A. Taylor, Mrs. Adamson and Mrs. Jas. Lauder, sen., waited upon Lady Aberdeen, with a request that she should address a women's meeting in Edmonton. Her Excellency acceded to the request and suggested that as president of the National Council of Women of Canada, her address be on the objects of this society with a view to organizing a local council in Edmonton and that the hour be 8:30 on Sunday evening.

At seven o'clock in the evening the vice royal party left the train for Edmonton in carriages, Mayor McCauley accompanying their excellencies in their carriage. A torch, light procession gotten up by the people of South Edmonton accompanied and lighted the party to the ferry landing and then forming lines on each side sang "Auld Lang Syne" as the carriages drove on the ferry. At the same time the bagpipes played by Thos. Houston struck up at the landing on the north side. On landing three cheers were given by the large crowd which had assembled at the band stand at the top of the hill and the party drove up the hill to the music of the bagpipes. On reaching the top the members of the St. Andrew's society who were waiting there cheered heartily and the band struck up "God Save the Queen." The carriages which had come across the river were joined by another containing the town councillors and a procession was formed with the torches in front followed by the band, the vice royal party in carriages, the town council in carriages and the St. Andrew's society on foot. The procession passed by way of first street to Jasper avenue and to Robertson Hall. The sidewalks were crowded with people as the procession passed along and as they passed the grand arch of evergreens lighted by electric light at the junction of Queen street, three cheers were given and cheers were given again on reaching the hall.

The hall was filled before the vice-royal party arrived, and afterwards it was jammed and crowded as it had never been before, and still hundreds of people could not get in. The hall was decorated magnificently with heads of the wood buffalo, muskox, mountain sheep, mountain goat and deer of several varieties, robes and furs of many kinds, flags, streamers and mottoes, and at one side a show of vegetables such as only Edmonton can produce. On the platform, beside their Excellencies, were Mayor McCauley and councillors McDougall, Strang, Sutter, Ross, Picard and Gallagher; Major Griesbach and Inspectors Snyder and Howard. Mayor McCauley acted as chairman. A selection was played by the orchestra and the address from the town was read by A. G. Randall, town clerk, as follows:

TO HIS EXCELLENCY, THE RIGHT HONORABLE SIR JOHN CAMPBELL HAMILTON GORDON, EARL OF ABERDEEN, ETC., ETC., AND GOVERNOR GENERAL OF CANADA.

MAY I PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:
In the name of the citizens of Edmonton, the Mayor and Council hasten to meet and welcome you and Lady Aberdeen and those in your company on this your first visit amongst us.

We honor you, not only for your position as the first representative in Canada of Our Most Gracious Queen, but also for your personal character and abilities and the deep and sympathetic interest which you take in the welfare of the Canadian people, and we congratulate ourselves that Lady Aberdeen seconded your efforts so enthusiastically.

Edmonton, as an incorporated town, dates its birth only from the early part of the year 1882; but as a Hudson's Bay Company's post and a point of business and interest, it antedates the century. In these respects it is, we believe, at once the youngest and the oldest settlement in the North-West Territories.

It is situated in the same degree of latitude as Dublin and Liverpool; it is the centre, and Nature's capital, of an immense tract of country, healthy in climate, fertile in soil, rich in the products of mine, forest, lake and river and affords every opportunity for making the conditions of life not inferior to those of any other part of Canada. Finally the population of the Town and District are, we assure you, imbued with the truest loyalty, a loyalty which is maintained by the well grounded belief that there is no country in the world to-day whose citizens enjoy so great a liberty as those ruled by the Gracious Sovereign whose most worthy representative Your Excellency is.

Signed on behalf of the Citizens of the Municipality of Edmonton.

M. McCauley, Mayor.
A. G. RANDALL, Clerk.

It is impossible, in this issue to reproduce and do justice to His Excellency's replies to this and the two other addresses which were presented. They will appear in next issue. It can only be said that the replies, which were made separately to each address were pointed, timely and well delivered, and were strictly impromptu.

A selection was given by the band and the address of the agricultural society was read by the secretary J. R. Turnbull, as follows:

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HONORABLE SIR JOHN CAMPBELL HAMILTON GORDON, EARL OF ABERDEEN, GOVERNOR GENERAL OF CANADA AND VICE ADMIRAL.

The Edmonton district agricultural society beg to greet your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen with a hearty welcome and take this opportunity of expressing our pleasure at having for the first time a direct representative of Her Most Gracious Majesty amongst us.

We are proud of our country, proud to know that its resources and capabilities are being recognized and noted throughout the length and breadth of the land.

For ourselves, we consider it the garden of the west and are satisfied that the products of our fields and dairies will compare favorably with any in the world.

The population of this district is comparatively small as yet, but when its great natural advantages are considered, its mineral wealth, fertile soil, its timber, navigable gold bearing river and healthy climate, there can be no doubt but that in the near future the Edmonton district will rank as one of the most important in the Dominion.

You have around you to-night specimens of the products of our fields and gardens also of our mineral and fur wealth and can judge to some extent of the nature and variety of our resources.

We wish your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen a pleasant visit and safe return to your eastern home and hope that you will carry with you nothing but pleasant recollection of Edmonton, its people and surroundings.

T. G. HUTCHINGS, President.
J. R. TURNBULL, Sec.-Treas.

After another selection by the band the address of the St. Andrew's Society was read by the secretary J. J. Dunlop as follows:

ADDRESS.
To His Excellency the Right Honorable Sir John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen, Viscount Ferrantine, Lord Haddo, in the peerage of Scotland, Viscount Gordon of Aberdeen, county of Aberdeen in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, Baronet of Nova Scotia etc., etc. Governor General of Canada and Vice-Admiral of the same.

MAY I PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

The members of the St. Andrew's Society, composed of Scotsmen and their descendants, gladly take advantage of this opportunity to extend to your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen, a welcome to Edmonton. It is a source of pride and pleasure to us as Scotsmen to know that the first Governor General of Canada to stand on the banks of the North Saskatchewan river should be a countryman of our own, and a distinguished scion of one of the great houses of Scotland.

Since 1670 our countrymen have been amongst the foremost pioneers of the North West, and in this the North Land to which the town of Edmonton is the gateway, they have also made their mark as intrepid adventurers and explorers, as the names of Mackenzie, Fraser, Thompson, Simpson, McLeod, Anderson, Rae, Campbell, and others will bear witness. One of the objects of our society is to foster sentiments of loyalty and attachment to the land from which we spring, we are none the less attached to this land in which we live. We recognize that the motto of the city of Aberdeen and labor and live together in "Bon accord."

The many services of your Excellency as a statesman, the deep interest you have shown in all questions affecting the welfare of your fellow men, are too well known to require recital from us; it will suffice to say that as Scotsmen, we are proud to welcome here to-night, as the representative of Her Majesty, one who may well be considered one of Scotland's most distinguished sons.

We would ask you to express to your amiable and popular consort, the high esteem in which we hold her. Her name is a "household word" not alone in the Northwest; but throughout the Empire, as one foremost in all good works. We rejoice in the success that has attended her Excellency's efforts, and pray that she may long be spared to continue them in the interests of the North West and civilization in general.

We desire to assure your Excellency of our steadfast loyalty and devotion to the person and throne of Her Majesty the Queen. The fact that she has made her home in Scotland, loves dearly its people, is deeply attached to its customs, has no doubt done much to make stronger in Scotsmen, those feelings of loyalty, attachment and devotion which are common to all subjects of Her Majesty, irrespective of nationality.

In conclusion, we would again assure your Excellencies that we gladly welcome your arrival in our midst, and trust that your sojourn here may be one of pleasure, that your trip west may be an enjoyable one, and that you may return home, in safety and in health.

(Signed)
G. J. KINNAIRD,
Pres. Edmonton St. Andrew's Society,
J. J. DUNLOP,
Secretary.

After another selection by the band His Excellency expressed in a few words his appreciation of the welcome accorded himself and Lady Aberdeen in Edmonton and give his best wishes for the prosperity and success of the place and people.

God Save the Queen was then played by the band and sung by the people. After the close of the meeting almost all of those in the hall were presented to their Excellencies who then returned to their train for the night.

On Sunday morning their Excellencies accompanied by their children Lady Marjorie and the Honorable Archie Gordon and several members of their party attended the Presbyterian church. The sermon was preached by Rev. D. G. McQueen. They returned for lunch to the train.

In the afternoon they visited St. Albert. At the ferry they were met by a police escort of honor under Major Griesbach and drove to St. Joachim's mission Edmonton, where they were met by the children of St. Joachim's school gaily attired carrying flags and singing songs of welcome. Miss Beatrice Beck presented a bouquet to Lady Aberdeen. A very pretty part of the decorations of the occasion was a picture of the two sons of Lord and Lady Aberdeen which had been presented some months before to Rev. Father Lacombe and which was displayed garlanded with flowers. Rev. Father Lacombe who is in charge of the mission was invited to accompany their Excellencies to St. Albert in their carriage. The party then proceeded to St. Albert preceded by the police escort and followed by a very long procession of people driving.

At St. Albert elaborate preparations had been made. A splendid arch of evergreens spanned the bridge in the centre and the bells chimed as the party appeared in view. As they ascended the hill to the bishop's palace the brass band of the orphanage played suitable pieces. Fully a thousand people awaited the party at the mission buildings. An arch had been erected in front at the gate to the palace and there His Lordship Bishop Grandin and his clergy met the vice royal party. On the party alighting from their carriages an address of welcome was read by His Lordship Bishop Grandin in French; and an address from the English speaking residents was read by H. W. McKenney in English and an address on behalf of the French Canadian and French half-breed population was read by A. Prince M. L. A. for St. Albert. The addresses were so tastefully illuminated as to call forth remark by Lord Aberdeen. They were the work of the reverend sisters at St. Albert and Edmonton. Lord Aberdeen replied in French to the addresses which had been presented in that language and in English to the English address. The party then visited the orphanage of Indian and half-breed children. A stage had been erected in the school room which was occupied by the vice royal party, the bishop and clergy and leading citizens of the place. The children sang songs of welcome and an address in English was presented by a little girl and an address in French by a little boy. The walls were decorated with mottoes of the families to which their Excellencies belong, and in speaking in reply, Lord Aberdeen alluded happily to these mottoes. The party then proceeded to the convent of the Sisters of charity, where lunch was served and to which about forty persons sat down. After lunch, the church was visited and admired, particularly the sculpture by some of the lay brothers. It was now about six o'clock and time for the party to return to Edmonton. They departed amid cheers for the Queen, and for Lord and Lady Aberdeen. On leaving, Lord Aberdeen remarked upon the beauty of the situation of the mission and surroundings.

In the evening, Robertson Hall was filled to hear Lady Aberdeen deliver her address as arranged, on the National Council of Women of Canada. The chair was taken by Mrs. A. Taylor, and the following ladies occupied chairs on the platform: Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Prince, Mrs. Dean, Mrs. A. Macdonald Mrs. Jas. McDonald, Mrs. Wellbourne, Mrs. Jollett, Mrs. Blowsy, Mrs. Lauder and Miss Hendrie. Lady Aberdeen arrived punctually at 8.30, and was escorted to the platform by Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Oliver when the following address was read by Mrs. A. Macdonald:

TO HER EXCELLENCY THE COUNTESS OF ABERDEEN.

MAY I PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

We the women of Edmonton, being part of the great sisterhood of women workers in the world, having heard of your intended visit to this far northern outpost of civilization, join in offering to you our most cordial greetings and in welcoming you for the first time to this part of Her Majesty's wide empire.

Although remote from the great centres of the world we are cognizant of the large-hearted interest you have always manifested in the various branches of philanthropic work for women in this and other lands, ever seeking to use the high position which God in His providence has called you to fill as a means of doing good to your fellow women, and of teaching to all by precept and example, the true value and dignity of labor.

Therefore we welcome you on the world-wide platform of Christian helpfulness and though our sphere here is limited, we are alive to many of the important questions of the day, and hope that ere long we shall be actually in touch with the more active workers in the field, and with this end in view, we are looking eagerly forward to the pleasure of hearing from one who has done so much to form and strengthen a bond of union among the women of Canada.

We trust that His Excellency and yourself have had a most enjoyable trip from your home in far Eastern Canada, and that your recollections of Edmonton will be among the most pleasant you carry back with you. That your Excellencies may be granted many happy years in which to carry on your work and that you may both enjoy Heaven's choicest blessings to the end, is the heartfelt wish and earnest prayer of every woman in Edmonton. Signed on behalf of the women of Edmonton.

ANNE J. WELBOURN,
C. A. McDONALD,
MISS HENDRIE.

A bouquet was presented by Miss Alice McDougall.

Lady Aberdeen's address, was listened to with close attention throughout; but lack of space does not admit of its appearing in this issue. It was entirely addressed to women. At its close a motion was passed to organize a local council of the National Council of Women, with the following officers: President, Mrs. A. Taylor, vice-presidents, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Bellamy, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Oliver, Miss Hendrie and the wives of the resident clergymen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. J. Walker; recording secretaries, Miss Calvert and Miss Osborne; treasurers, Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Prince. The meeting was closed with silent prayer, followed by the singing of the doxology.

The special train carrying their Excellencies and party south left shortly after midnight.

COMMUNICATION.
EDITOR BULLETIN.
Sir: I trust you will not think me presumptuous in asking you to publish my letter to the S. S. Taylor. I sincerely regret that he has taken my few remarks so much to heart, and an extremely sorry he was moved to reply in the manner he did.
He is under the impression that my letter was written for the purpose of injuring him and treats it as a personal attack. Nothing was farther from my mind than the conception he has of my motive. The letter was written for the purpose of vindicating the arbitrators from the unwarrantable insinuations made against them by him in his criticism of the award; to show that the arbitrators were not a fair statement of the facts. It was personal only so far as it referred to Mr. Taylor, the arbitrator. He must remember that I have a reputation at stake as well as himself and when by his actions and words he attacks me, I intend to defend myself as well as him. He says he never attacked me; true he did not in so many words say I had given a false award, but broadly he insinuated it. Had he not done so, I should certainly not have replied to his criticism.
He knew I would do so, if he wrote and published such a document, so he was not taken by surprise.
He even knew that his letter would be published, for the third arbitrator told him so. In stating my case, I have made any false charges against Mr.
Taylor. I will be only too pleased to retract them and apologize for my mistake, when he shows the charges to be wrong or false. If I have told the public truths which are unpalatable to him my reason for so doing has been to place myself in the proper light before the public and not for the purpose of injuring him. If he has suffered by this course, it can hardly be charged that it is my fault.
In all sincerity I deny any intention of injuring Mr.
Taylor. I must have made a personal attack on him. However I cannot, at the present time retract a word of my last letter, but wish it to be clearly understood that my remarks I have made or may make about him refer only to his conduct and actions as an arbitrator in the Town vs. McDougall case.
He contends that his so-called dissenting judgment is not a criticism of the award. On this I take issue with him. In this document he criticizes the arbitrators as though addressing a jury. He picks out any point in favor of his side, and omits those in favor of McDougall. For example on this point: "The treatment of Mr. Chalmers' evidence, whom he boldly said valued the increase to McDougall by the extension of the street at $700 to $1000, but when I pointed out during our deliberations that Mr.
Chalmers' figuring did not show this, but a decrease of at least $350, Mr. Taylor took the hint and sagaciously explained that Mr. Chalmers' was taken without meaning etc. Still he told Mr. Chalmers to give "little list" as a witness for the town. I claim his evidence was more in favor of McDougall than of the town. Mr. Bellamy said, Mr. Randall had been little facing the trail at the same figure as lots facing McDougall street, yet these, and other witnesses who made similar pertinent remarks, are seized upon by Mr. Taylor and put down by him as having given evidence entirely and only in favor of the town.
Besides Mr. Chalmers, there were other witnesses for the town, whose values when figured out did not correspond with their simple statements. The amount of the increase to block X by the extension of the street. Mr. Taylor most likely will accuse me of slandering these witnesses, and raise a temptation to me to do as he has done in regard to the town councillors and treasurer. He says he never criticized his fellow arbitrators. What is the following, if not a criticism? "Is not this a beautiful showing for me to find a trail upon which to give an award upon?" This was not written some days after the award was signed and the chief reason for the award was that we found a trail upon evidence which Mr. Taylor avers at. Still he dares not accept my challenge to publish his legal opinion that there is not a trail. "This is not one of his strong points." His treatment of the correspondence is unfair and his conclusions wrong. If McDougall ever offered the 50 feet free, where was the necessity for an arbitrator? Mr. Taylor says McDougall withdrew his offer in 1894; but goes outside the evidence in so stating, and I do not know whether it is true or not. It certainly was not brought to the attention of the arbitrators. Briefly, I consider Mr. Taylor's report a criticism for these reasons:
1. It is one-sided; in parts untrue; and therefore was not fair to the arbitrators who signed the award; as they had no means of explaining their case except as has been done; and for which Mr. Taylor so roundly abuses me.
2. The correspondence is intentionally misconstrued and wrongly interpreted by Mr. Taylor, and also in a different manner from what the three arbitrators agreed upon when considering the award.
3. Mr. Taylor states what he knows to be wrong, in reference to the trail, and entirely different from what he agreed to in considering the award.
4. The document states that there are no grounds; no evidence or facts to warrant an award of $325.
If the stating, as in number four is not a criticism, but also an insult to the arbitrators, I cannot understand my native language.
Now I turn to his letter. When speaking of his so-called judgment, I will as before refer to it as his criticism. I fail to understand the reason of my friend's wrath and anger. Had I made some outrageous charges against him, without producing any evidence to support them, I could understand his indignation, and his frantic appeal to the whole town to come to his rescue, but sir, I only made a few charges not one of which he has refuted. I have accused Mr. Taylor of five things, viz:
1. That his so-called judgment was simply a criticism of the award
2. That he broke faith with the arbitrators.
3. That he contradicted himself on "the trail."
4. That P. Heimnck & Co., displaced him as Mc-Dougall's agent last spring.
5. That he was a prejudiced arbitrator and stultified himself in so acting.
Now sir, what charge have I not proved? No. 1, 2 and 3 I proved in my last letter by giving cold facts.
No. 4 Mr. Taylor does not deny, but quibbles about it. No. 5 remains proved and he lets it severely alone.
In reference to charge 4, the only one Mr. Taylor, mentions, he answers, that at the time of the arbitration, he was acting for McDougall in a "professional capacity," I stated that he was displaced as Mc-Dougall's agent by P. Heimnck & Co., not that Heimnck was McDougall's solicitor. Mark the quibbling here, for it occurs all through his letter, as he is his critic and lawyer. However, I was wrong to prove that he stultified himself in acting as an arbitrator, but his statement that while being McDougall's solicitor he could not act in any other capacity professionally he acted as arbitrator in a case against McDougall. On the other charges he is dumb.
As to his letter I do not intend to say much; merely to refute some statements and to give the lie direct to others. Let me say that Mr. Taylor's allusions to my having desired for a position in public affairs, cannot add strength to his case.
Granting I have such desires, would it not have been to my personal advantage to have been with the very large majority of the taxpayers who were anxious for an award in favor of the town. If he proves anything by this it is that I, seeking a position in public affairs, stood up the majority of the majority of the taxpayers led by their "chosen arbitrator" and refused to be coerced and bullied into giving an unfair and dishonest award. I could wish for no better testimony to my entire freedom from prejudice and partiality than Mr. Taylor supplies me with. I regret that, for obvious reasons, I cannot return the compliment.
In the next paragraph he gets himself so involved and entangled that he is reminded of Darius's saying "He is intoxicated by the exuberance of his own verbosity." As far as I can make any sense out of it, he accuses me of, 1st knowing that he was going to write a document such as he did. 2nd that I asked him for a copy of such document. 3rd that I knew he did not publish the same in the BULLETIN. The whole paragraph, especially the three remarks I have mentioned, is hardly true so far as it refers to me. I never asked him for a copy and I do not yet know that he did not cause it to be published.
He closes this paragraph by using the remarkable statement that "I choose to leave the whole matter on the falsehood." What falsehood? If he insinuates that I have stated a falsehood, I dare and defy him to prove it. He no doubt will reply that this is another "low bluff." This paragraph is certainly intelligible. He asks me to show how I reached the award of $325. I am surprised at Mr. Taylor not having before this told the public how that sum was reached. He knows fully the grounds, reasons and figures upon which such sum was reached, for he was told and everything explaining to him during our deliberations. I again say that it is not part of the duty of an arbitrator to explain to the public how the award was reached. Mr.
Taylor thought otherwise, but only because he saw a chance of scoring a point with his majority thereby. He bases his conclusion wholly upon the ground that more witnesses were in favor of the town than against.
In this connection he states that I admit the great majority of witnesses are with him. Now this is a deliberate and intentional falsification. Counting heads he has but a bare majority on his side, while if evidence is sifted (which he admitted he had never done at the time he told the arbitrators his decision and which, in his criticism, he only does with evidence against the town) valuations figured and adjudged his case is in a hopeless minority. I did not consider that my oath to "give an award ac-ording to the evidence," meant that because 15 men were in favor of the town and 14 against, I had to give the award to the town. This may be a very good argument, but it is not logical or sensible.

Let us see how it comes out. The town says Mr.
Taylor says, 12 men on its side. Had Mr. McDougall called more than this number who swore that McDougall was entitled to damages then Mr. Taylor would have signed our award; then in his award given an award for more, for no witness gives the damage at less than $1000. If Mr. Taylor considers the duties of an arbitrator to consist only in counting the "ayes and nays," I am sorry for his decision in common sense. Had I imagined that as an arbitrator I was to become a nonentity; a sort of automatic machine, I would have thought it beneath my dignity to have accepted the position, and exercised what common sense God has given me, in arriving at a decision. By these means I reached the sum of $325. The public can decide which was the fairest and most proper manner of giving an award. The last day upon which the arbitrators were to hear evidence, the solicitor for McDougall asked for an adjournment in order to have several more witnesses called. The chair (Mr. Taylor) urged him to close his case, assuring him that he (Mr.
Taylor) would not be guided in his award by the number of witnesses called on either side, intimating that the majority would not guide him in his award.
He even went so far as to remark "I do not think any of the arbitrators will count heads." With this assurance Mr. Brown was evidently satisfied and asked that he be given the privilege of calling two witnesses at the next sitting; when the arguments were to be delivered. I do not know what conclusions the public will arrive at, but my very close move on his part. I have described his conduct in reference to this matter as cute, your readers can supply their own terms, but I fancy mine will be the mildest of all. A fortnight after his published declaration the majority of witnesses would not influence his award and that he "would not count heads," what does he do? Why sir, he writes a criticism on the award, in which he accuses the arbitrators to be biased and (the award) in favor of the town; because he says, it (the award) has the bulk of evidence and the majority (of witnesses) called. To put it in another shape he says "I have counted heads and find their number is 12 for the town and a fewer number against; thereby doing exactly what he assured Mr. Brown he would not do." This is a criticism means, if it means anything, that Mr. Edmiston and myself did not count our duties; did not realize the meaning of our oaths, and signed an award which was based upon neither acts or figures. His next trouble seems to be that I did not refer to the letters put in as evidence. One letter, I quoted from, but which evidently escaped his notice. The others I included when challenging him to show that McDougall was not entitled to the town. There is no use of his quibbling about the word "free" in his next letter, as it won't work. His letter of May 6th '93 was tendered as evidence by Mr. Brown, but Mr. Taylor, without examining the other arbitrators objected, but finally condescended to allow a copy of parts to be filed. As his only objection was that the letter mentioned the names of some of his clients, I have left these out.
In other respects the following is a full copy. This will render me safe from any charges of carboling or misrepresentation, from Mr. Taylor. Had I known in support of that time, this controversy would not have occurred, as I would have refused to have gone on with the arbitration under the peculiar conditions revealed by this letter. I fully believe that the third arbitrator would have done the same thing.
Edmonton, May 6th, '93.
David McDougall, Esq.,
Morley, Alberta.
Sir: A number of people residing in the eastern end of the town, including—and others for the last week have been secretly surveying a right of way from the middle ferry to the end of the town and up by Humboldt's mine. Their intention is to offer this for the use of the town and I have found out that they are urging the point that the Methodist mission and you are not willing to give the right of way over your properties, and consequently the ferry road cannot be put on your property. They intend to bring this matter before the council and have four council men pledged to support them. I got wind of it and immediately wrote an official letter on behalf of the Methodist church, offering a free right of way over their property up the hill and along in front of the parsonage to the church, being the same as is now used.
Now to make this thing complete it will be necessary to give the hill and near the river bank to give free right of way for the ferry lands on your land, it will also be necessary for you to grant a free right of way to the end of the Ross road on top of the hill as that road grows comes out upon your land, besides the town council have expressed their willingness to continue McDougall street through to the brow of the hill on the south side of Jasper avenue and to expropriate the lot that McCauley owned, but which has been sold to another party and lot 1 R. L. S. They say that they will do this if you will give a free right of way 50 feet wide from the back of lot (1) to the bank, meeting the trail as it comes up the hill. As to the property that McCauley owns, he is willing to grant a right of way up to his house or as far as his land goes, free, then this will make a good street.
Now you can readily see that this will be of wonderful advantage to you, it will pay you 400 per cent, because the block of land which now lies back of the main street, then he could then be expropriated and be a beautiful place for a residence. It will be worth four times as much as it is at present, you will also have the main ferry road and the traffic bridge road when the bridge is built going right by the property, they are enhancing the value of it and the whole of the balance of river lot 8 at least 20 per cent.
I sincerely hope that you will follow my suggestion in this matter, as I feel sure that it is for your benefit, and we would ask you to let us know of your decision in the matter by return of mail so that we may advise the town council. By following my suggestions you will successfully break up the past combination and place your property in the very centre of the business part of the town.
In this case of course I will insist that the town will pay the expenses of the survey and the transfer fee. Kindly let us hear from you by return mail re this matter.
Yours etc.,
S. S. TAYLOR.
It was in answer to this letter that McDougall wrote on May 10, 1893, when he says "I am willing to do what is right and fair," in order to break up the combination who were secretly surveying a trail to knock the west end out, provided "that the town opens up and continues McDougall street," Mc-Dougall street is 50 feet wide and to make an extension of such street, such extension would have to be 50 feet wide and not 66 as is now done. In Mr.
Taylor's letter he says "the town will expropriate the lot that McCauley owned and Lot 1, R. L. S." making 100 feet. Upon these terms McDougall said he would give the 50 feet back of Lot 1, R. Lot 8, but never, so far as shown, did he offer to give the 50 feet free for a 66 foot street, and I again challenge Mr. Taylor to prove it. He repeats in his letter the untruth of the free offer, when I have his word that McDougall never intended to do so and was entirely guided in the matter by his (Mr. Taylor's) advice. I have also seen his opinion in writing as McDougall's solicitor, "that the town are compelled to open up McDougall street south, 50 feet wide." Observe the difference between Mr. Taylor the "chosen arbitrator's" opinion and Mr. Taylor's opinion when acting as McDougall's solicitor. As to Heimnck's letter, it does not contain an offer of the 50 feet, free and unconditionally, and much as Mr.
Taylor may quibble about, twist and misinterpret this letter, he cannot make a sane man so think.
If he chose to put a construction on this letter suit the town, and upon May 6, 1893, he should not blame me for not being able to agree with him. I offered to pay the costs of the arbitration could he prove that McDougall or Heimnck ever offered the 50 feet free for a 66 foot street as shown on the plan placed before the arbitrators. In place of accepting this offer, he says it is "a low mean bluff" and that I have treated him badly and scandalized him. If the truth scandalizes him I plead guilty.
I now come to the gravest, to me, part of his letter, and Sir, in speaking of him and his remarks heretofore, I have endeavored to use the mildest and gentlest language; however, in his remarks in reference to my "assumed" case of six or seven witnesses, he has so outrageously exceeded the limits of fairplay that I must gently but firmly remonstrate with my young friend. So long as he confines his little jokes and pleasantries to my letter, myself and what I did say, I am satisfied to allow him to enjoy himself. I have no objection to his endeavoring to create sympathy for himself at my expense, and by personal abuse try to draw a herring across the sent. In all these little peculiarities of Mr. Taylor I can thoroughly enter into and enjoy watching his assumed holy horror at anyone daring to point out his conduct; but when he states what is false, what any man who can read the English language would be false, for the purpose of making me slander the mayor, councillors and Mr. Kirkpatrick, I must characterize his willful misrepresentation as contemptible.
Whoever would have thought that a G. C. would make a false statement, and upon this work himself into a cataleptic condition which was only relieved by a flow of eloquence in which he "brands me with the contempt of the whole town." All this I have to endure for what? For something I never said or thought. Mr. Taylor says I said so; but between his saying to and its being so there is as great a difference as between night and day; as between a deliberate falsehood and the plain truth. Had I compared these gentlemen to S. S. Taylor in his actions as an arbitrator, then I should indeed have grossly insulted them and deserved worse than branding.

I know these gentlemen too well to use such a humiliating comparison. All comparisons are odious; but such a one would also have been odious—of things not lovely. He is too anxious to get into good company. Let us see how my friend argues, how fairly and how honestly he quotes. I said "I do not infer nor wish it to be thought, that in the following example I compare the town witnesses to those in my assumed case." Mr. Taylor says "that I have with me, six or seven prejudiced witnesses." Now these men to whom he refers are the town councillors and the town treasurer." Is this not a deliberate falsification? Mr. Taylor cannot and dare not deny my charges, and so resorts to prevaricating.
This style of argument my learned friend calls logic; it is his idea of gentlemanly controversy and "is a sample of the reason, I suppose, upon which he based his award." In his own classical phrase, "this too thin."
I attached to the evidence of these gentlemen the same importance as to others, and I do not ask Mr.
Taylor to accept my word for this; but he can scarcely again explain "it is too thin," when I can prove it by a gentleman in whom he has the greatest confidence and who, although signing the same award as myself, honestly differed from Mr. Taylor.
He has all he can attend to at present to clear his own character, without rubbing to the help of people who have never been attacked.
For the third arbitrator he has very kindly feelings even leaving his abuse of myself to assure the public that W. S. Edmiston is a gentleman. If Mr. Edmiston can survive the compliment I will endeavor to bear up under the implied insult. How Mr. Taylor's keen and convincing logic runs through every line of his letter.
In conclusion I ask the public to note the "tenor of Mr. Taylor's next letter, if he is foolish enough to attempt one, and see what charges he refuses. Calling my names will not prove that he was not a prejudiced judge and was his award on May 6, 1893.
My charges are not vague or indefinite. Mr.
Taylor cannot find five which I have abused in order to facilitate his reply. I have tried when through answering these old charges he might be able to find a few more to answer in my present letter. With this letter I leave the subject for good.
If he has slandered me, I will endeavor to make statements about him or the arbitration, he can easily prove them to be false. We were not alone, and it need not be a question of his word against mine. He has slandered me, and I have the same space for discussing such unimportant personages as Mr. Taylor and myself.

heretofore, I have endeavored to use the mildest and
gentlest language; however, in his remarks in reference to my "assumed" case of six or seven witnesses,
personal abuse try to draw a herring across the
sent. In all these little peculiarities of Mr. Taylor
I can thoroughly enter into and enjoy watching his
any man who can read the English language would
be false, for the purpose of making me slander the
mayor, councillors and Mr. Kirkpatrick, I must characterize his willful misrepresentation as contemptible.
Whoever would have thought that a G. C. would

A MEETING of the St. Andrew's society was held in the town hall on Thursday evening when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, G. J. Kinnaird; first vice-president, C. F. Edmondson; second vice-president, C. F. Strang; secretary, J. J. Dunlop; chaplain, Rev. D. G. McQueen; pipers, T. Hourston; standard bearer, K. A. McLeod.

MESSRS. GEAR, Singleton, Donajkowski and Jester, settlers from Washington, returned from the Beaver hills district on Thursday and left for Leduc on Saturday. They were very much pleased with the soil and samples of farm produce they saw near Beaver hills, and took samples of grain at different farms for comparison. They decided upon taking land there if they do not see something better in the vicinity of Leduc.

Soon after crossing the river on Thursday, and while Mr. Laboucan's teams were resting, some of the horses managed to get away which resulted in his being detained here a day longer than was expected. Mr. Laboucan took with him a carload of flour and will winter somewhere in the vicinity of Fort Assiniboine at a point yet to be located. This is Mr. Laboucan's first visit to that district and he expects the journey will occupy ten days. He hopes to be back in December with part of the winter's trade in furs and to take out more supplies.

THE flow of natural gas that was struck in the well which is being bored near the electric light station, ceased for a time, but has commenced again. The well is now down about 127 feet from the surface and about 90 feet below the river bed. The deposits through which they have already gone consist of 36 feet of soft earth, then about four feet of hard light colored sandstone, then 20 feet of sandstone somewhat softer than the former and of a darker color. Beyond this they struck a grey stone somewhat like soapstone, only gritty, which continued for about 50 feet. It was at the bottom of this that the gas began to come up. They are now down in about two feet of shale which shows indications of coal.

A CURIOUS piece of typographical work was turned out of the BULLETIN office this week called the Ganawayittamuk of the Cree nation. It is the Indian calendar for 1895 and is circulated among the Indians between here and the Arctic circle. The days of the month are represented by strokes and the Sundays by a cross, while the month is printed in Cree characters and is illustrated by signs. For instance, the month of January is the month of the big moon, February is the month of the eagle, March is known as the month of the wild goose, April is represented by a frog, and so on. Each month has its own illustration. On the opposite side of the dates are scriptural illustrations beginning with our Lord as a child and illustrating the principal events of His life, such as the temptation, the crucifixion and the ascension in the months that they took place. This almanac also serves as a means of recording Fast days, Lent and serves as a calendar and religious aid. It will be January, 1895, at least before this Ganawayittamuk reaches some of its dusky readers. It is published by Rev. Father Lacombe for circulation amongst the missions of the Roman Catholic church in the Northwest.
